hellion \HEL-yuhn\, noun:

a disorderly, troublesome, rowdy, or mischievous person.

I wanted to cry most of all because I had wanted to right my own wrongs, to raise a loving family, and I had instead produced a hellion.

-- Jane Hamilton, A Map of the World, 1994

Brother Bob, the only brother I had left; the good, true, and dutiful son to Mama while I the preacher's hellion son rambled and gambled out there in the Territory...

-- Ralph Ellison, Three Days Before the Shooting, 2010

Hellion entered English in the mid-1800s from the Scottish and Northern English word of unknown origin hallion meaning "worthless fellow." When this word crossed the pond, the "a" in hallion was replaced by an "e," supposedly because of associations with hell.

droll \droh\, adjective:

1. amusing in an odd way; whimsically humorous; waggish.

noun:

1. a droll person; jester; wag.

verb:

1. Archaic. to jest; joke.

Adah would, of course, say something more droll, such as "Why, Rachel, your interest in personal hygiene has truly become a higher calling."

-- Barbara Kingslover, The Poisonwood Bible, 1998

It's a droll juxtaposition, and it denotes Ms. Drury as a product of our multitasking, wide-sampling age.

-- Rob Weinert-Kendt, "Writes Well With Others,"
The New York Times,
April 16, 2013

Droll originally comes from the Middle Dutch word drol referring to "a fat little man." The word came to English through the French droll which meant "pleasant rascal."

FOR SALE

After having learned not to believe a value set by someone not in the business, I am again asking for assistance in selling the 1982 Corvette. $8000.00. I drove it two weeks ago, still runs great, She needs an owner who will run her. Thank you for any assistance you may provide.

Subject: 1982 Corvette pictures

My husband, car guy, muscle car guy, Harley, sailboat, drag boat, guy, hunter, electrician, home remodeler, guy who could and did do everything, bought his dream car 15 years ago, planning to return it to pristine condition in retirement. On January 16, 2009 Steve was diagnosed with Early Onset Alzheimers Disease. One of the things that indicated something was wrong was his problem parking the 'vette, the pain is smudged off the front corners.

In 2010 Steve's drivers license was rescinded. I wouldn't sell the Corvette until it was okay with him. After a trip to the beach last summer, he said to sell her. I wanted to be sure so waited until now. If you know of anyone who is interested, our 1982 Corvette, T-Top, Gray w/Red Interior, 98,250 miles, wide back tires, with attitude to spare, needs an owner who will appreciate her as much as my husband did. She's always been garaged, needs a radio. $8,000. Thank you all for any assistance in helping us sell the 'vette.

Skinny Dipping

An elderly man in Louisiana owned a large farm for several years.

He had a large pond in the back. It was properly shaped for swimming, so he fixed it up nice with picnic tables, horseshoe courts, and some apple and peach trees.

One evening the old farmer decided to go down to the pond, as he hadn't been there for a while, and look it over.

He grabbed a five-gallon bucket to bring back some fruit.

As he neared the pond, he heard voices shouting and laughing with glee.

As he came closer, he saw it was a bunch of young women skinny-dipping in his pond.

He made the women aware of his presence and they all went to the deep end.

One of the women shouted to him, 'we're not coming out until you leave!'

The old man frowned, 'I didn't come down here to watch you ladies swim naked or make you get out of the pond naked.' Holding the bucket up he said, 'I'm here to feed the alligator.'

Some old men can still think fast.
