4 Cylinder entry level Corvette?

If you love how the new Mazda MX-5 drives, but want something that looks a bit more vintage, this perfectly quirky Corvette Stingray-bodied Miata could be the mashup you've been waiting for. It's called the Rock Star, and it's built by a Japanese company called Mitsuoka.

Would you call this a Corvette Rat Rod or engineering project in progress?

Incredible skills and vivid imagination combined to produce this one-of-a-kind 1961 Corvette. Even without a drop of paint on its body, this 1961 Corvette is like a mirror insofar as it reflects the incredible talent of Tommy Vinciguerra, the master fabricator who built it. It's a 40 year work in process.

CORVETTE RACING AT ROAD ATLANTA: GTLM Title for Garcia, Magnussen.

Corvette Racing's Antonio Garcia and Jan Magnussen won their second straight IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship GT Le Mans (GTLM) Driver title Saturday, and in true Corvette Racing fashion it was a team effort.

Oliver Gavin, Tommy Milner and Marcel Fässler placed second in class at Road Atlanta's 10-hour Petit Le Mans in the No. 4 Mobil 1/SiriusXM Chevrolet Corvette C7.R to close Corvette Racing's 20th season of competition in IMSA. Garcia, Magnussen and Fässler co-drove the No. 3 Corvette to an eighth-place finish – a result good enough to secure the GTLM Driver and Team championships.

It is the 12th Driver Championship for Corvette Racing and 13th Team title in the program's 20-year history.
