Old Business:

Linda thanked everyone for helping at our show, she is very proud of how everyone handled themselves. We had a record 126 Corvettes which beat the record by 20! All Corvette show made $3,004, Open Class show $2,491.

Briefly discussed Vett-A-Bration in Yakima. Was a bit disorganized this year, no raffle items, they gave away $20 bills. Cruised Selah, we were left on our own to get there and back with no directions. Joanne & Kristie won 1st place in their class, Mike Beardsley also won 1st class and best of show.

June 22nd, Car show at Sandy's center. Bring side dishes & dessert. Meet at Petco at 11am, will meet Bill at Frontier to lead us there.

Still going over and testing radios to find a solution. Discovered in Yakima that some cars have electrical interference with radios.

Reminder that dues are to be paid by May 31st. Dues are $30.00.

New Business:

Coconut Kennys had given our room to another group. They did not recognize our on-going meetings. They were very rude about it. We went over things very briefly in the middle of the dining room. We will find a new meeting place. Lots of ideas were mentioned.

Twin City Idler's car show in Stanwood is June 30. Currently have 178 trophies with more coming in.

Meeting adjourned at 6:50pm.

No Jokers Up

Corvette News:

The Angriest Corvette of All:

Not the prettiest but, with big-block power, visually striking bodywork and with the performance characteristics (and noise) of a rocket ship, IMSA Corvettes were some of the loudest, brash and powerful cars to ever run in the series.

CORVETTE RACING AT LE MANS: From Hopes to Heartbreak:

Corvette Racing's hopes for a magical victory in its 20th straight appearance at the 24 Hours of Le Mans didn't come to pass, but the effort of the program was never stronger than what the team displayed Saturday and Sunday in the world's biggest endurance race.

The No. 63 Mobil 1/SiriusXM Chevrolet Corvette C7.R of Antonio Garcia, Jan Magnussen and Mike Rockenfeller finished ninth in the GTE Pro category on a day where the trio was firmly in contention for the first 20 hours. Three unlucky safety car periods and an untimely late trip to the garage for repairs following a spin put a dent in the plans for a ninth class victory in 20 years.

The No. 64 Corvette was up and down the order early with Gavin climbing from 11th at the start to fourth in class during his opening two stints. Debris on his tires made it challenging for him to maintain his early pace but he and Milner had relatively calm stints before handing over to Fässler, who was matching the pace of his teammates before in incident.
